Wudex Flush Doors are simple interior and exterior doors that feature plain facings on both sides of the construction. While the flush door is more closely associated with function rather than style, this plain sort of door lends itself well to a number of room design where the desire is to highlight other elements in the space. Doors of this type may have a solid or hollow core. The typical flush door is manufactured by using two sections of plywood that are attached to each side of a wooden frame, While the interior of the door is made of solid hardwood Blocks.

Wudex Flush Doors made of 100% seasoned hardwood and pressed high pressure with superior Phenol formaldehyde to intensify its inner strength.
